**Expecting 3000 head****
Some of the top calves we sell all year!
All green tag vac & All weaned.

Well Mother Nature delivered us a big curve ball at the end of the week. I'm very thankful for the sunshine that we got to experience after it. Our feed yard pens didn't care very much for it but hopefully we will be able to get those scraped back into shape soon. It's only 40 days until the first of March. Those February bred hrs will start popping soon and good luck to all of you with that. We had our first one this morning!

FED CATTLE/WEIGH COWS TUESDAY, JAN 12TH:
 Tuesday's fed cattle trade was awful. Honestly, I still think this higher priced grain should push these cattle higher. Packers are so used to these outrageous profits it will be hard to give up those margins. Same old story in the weigh cow trade. Decency laws will keep me from commenting too much on that.

WEIGH COWS	462hd	FAT CATTLE 315hd	Stvs	Hfirs

Cutting Bulls:	$No Test	Select Holsteins	$No Test
Preg open hfirs:	$90-$100	Fat Hfirs		$75-$85
Hfirs:	$70-$80

BRED FEMALE AUCTION, WED, JAN 13TH:
 Wednesday's bred cow auction offered 1200 head of the nicest bred hfirs and cows as we ever, ever had a chance to sell. People traveled from all over and we had over 60 buyers watching on line. The market was extremely active. We had 140 bred hfirs that traded from $2100-$2275. Several hfirs in addition brought 1800-$2000. Some smaller frame hfirs $1500-$1750. There was a potload of 2nd calvers that brought $1900-$2000. Several young cows $1500-$1850, Med age cows $1100-$1500, Aged cows $800-$1050.

FEEDER CATTLE AUCTION: SATURDAY, JAN 16TH:
 Friday's winter storm caused the auction to be moved to Saturday. That's a decision we felt forced to do with road conditions as awful as they were. Thank you all for understanding. We sold over 1400 head Friday on a very active market despite all the pressure from the corn trade. Here are some results.

20 Str 531 @ $157.25	49 Str 779# @ $133.75	12 Hfirs 588# @ $138
